This bachelor's degree program can help you earn the knowledge, skills, and credentials you need to become a professional in a variety of career fields, including personal property professional, bookkeeper, clerical assistant, and more. The program focuses on the essentials of real estate, accounting, insurance, financing, marketing, decision-making, and management skills necessary to compete in today's complex business world.

Personal property management is the management of fixed assets, such as desks, hospital beds, airplanes, radar equipment, etc., at local, state, and federal government agencies, colleges, universities, medical facilities, and private industries. The field had its genesis in the defense contracting arena, in the management of government-owned personal property in the possession of defense contractors.

May be completed in as few as 30 months under a flexible accelerated schedule.
